The Human Price of War

photographs by: Maria Turchenkova

Two years of conflict in Yemen have devastated the country, 18 million people are in need of humanitarian help. It is the largest food security emergency in the world. The UN says more than 7,600 people - mostly civilians - have been killed and some 42,000 others injured since the conflict between forces loyal to exiled President Abdrabbuh Mansour Hadi supported by Saudi-led coalition and those allied to the Houthi rebel movement escalated in March 2015.

Maria Turchenkova was one of very few journalists who entered the country during this period and her photography affords us an insight into the humanitarian catastrophe unfolding in Yemen, one which remains absent from the international emergency agenda and mainstream media.

Biography Maria Turchenkova

After five years of radio journalism, Maria took up photography in 2011 and started with documenting political and social issues in Moscow. Since then she reports from remote places in Russia, Lebanon, Yemen and Iraq, working on editorial feature stories as well as conducting her own personal projects. As a documentary photographer she explores mostly underreported stories.

During 2011-2012 Maria worked independently on a long-term project 'Hidden War In The Land Of Mountains' in Dagestan, North Caucasus, Russia. During 2014 she reported extensively from Ukraine. Recently her attention has focused on reporting from both Russia and the Middle East.

In 2013 she was selected for the Getty Reportage Emerging Talent showcase. The same year she became a participant of the World Press Photo Joop Swart Masterclass in Amsterdam. In 2014, Turchenkova was selected as "PDN's 30: New and Emerging Photographers to Watch".

Maria Turchenkova's work has appeared in Le Monde, Time Magazine, The New York Times, The Guardian, Der Spiegel, Newsweek Magazine, The Times, La Repubblica and others.
